FREDERICK WM. AND SARAH JANE BOND GILES

Frederick William Giles and his wife, Sarah Jane Bond Giles, were born about the time Heber was settled, he in Provo on February 24, 1860, son of Frederick and Mary Ann Moulton Giles, and she in Heber on May 31, 1864, daughter of Jesse and Sarah Adams Bond.

Their parents joined the Church in England, crossed the plains in 1855-56, and are listed with the first settlers of Provo Valley. The first cabins were built close together for a protection from the Indians, in what was called the old fort. In a year or two the people were allowed to move to their own lots. The Giles family built a two-room log house on Third North and First West, while the Bonds moved to Second North and Main Street.

Their childhood and youth were spent helping on the farm and in the home. As a mere boy, Frederick herded cows in the foothills north of Heber, known as the London hills. When he was older he helped with all the farm work. They put in many long, hard hours, as all the plowing, planting, cutting and reaping had to be done by hand, with only very crude, hand-made implements and equipment.

Being the eldest daughter, Sarah was obliged to help in the home. There was a large family of nine children and they had to knit all the stockings and make all the clothing by hand, most of which had to be done with a kerosene lamp at night for light. She had to carry ditch water for use in all things, drinking, cooking, and washing, until they found time to dig a well.

They both attended school in the first school houses built, which were of log, with rough benches for seats. They advanced by readers instead of grades and paid their own tuition for the first few years.

All meetings were held in the school houses. When the old hall was built on Main Street they used it for all their meetings, dances, theaters, etc. They both taught in the Sunday Schools held in that building and later on he was the secretary.

Sarah's father was made janitor of the old hall, so she had to help keep it clean and in order, which was hard work, as they had to heat and carry all the water from home. If a dance had been held on Saturday night, which was often the case, they had to work late into the night to get it ready for Sunday School the next morning.

Being active in the Church, Frederick was advanced from Deacon to High Priest in the priesthood, and held many positions in both the West and Third Wards. He was theological teacher in Sunday School, president of the YMMIA, and assistant in the Stake Sunday School superintendency. In October, 1894, he was chosen as one of the counselors to Bishop Thomas Hicken, and when the stake was divided into three wards he was made ward clerk on Febrary 15, 1903. He was clerk but a short time when, on November 8, 1903, he was made first counselor to Bishop Frederick Crook, which position he held twenty-nine years. Most of the time he was in the bishopric he was the parents' or gospel doctrine class leader in Sunday School.

He spoke at numerous funerals and was called upon many, many times to help administer to the sick. During the 1880s and '90s he belonged to the Dramatic Club, which consisted of young men and women, who put on plays in all the surrounding towns and counties.

They were married in the Logan Temple on November 10, 1886, by Mariner W. Merrill. They made the trip by wagon. Two other Heber couples made the trip with them and were married at the same time. It required nine days, as they ran into a severe snowstorm on the way.

With the money he had saved by working for his uncle on the ranch north of town, and also hauling freight to Greenriver, they were able to purchase some land. They started to raise cattle and built a house on Second West and Sixth South Streets. Their seven children were born there, except the oldest. Their names follow: Zella Giles Moulton, Alva Giles, Lula Mary Giles Watkins, Sara Winona Giles, Ida Lapriel Giles Walker, Mabel Inez Giles Turner, and Violet Elverda Giles Peal. They were able to send four of the children to the BYU and a daughter on a mission.

On January 26, 1908, he was called on a mission to Great Britain, leaving on February 12. He labored in the Grimsby and Hull Conferences, being president of the latter. He filled an honorable mission and returned home April 4, 1910. He was released from the bishopric while he was away for the two years, but resumed his duties upon his return.

In 1912 the bishopric planned and built the present Third Ward chapel.

Having been in poor health a number of years, Sarah passed away May 12, 1921. After her death, Frederick continued on alone for twelve more years, working in the bishopric until Bishop Crook was released in 1931. He remained active in the Church, teaching most of the time in the Sunday School until his death.

He was president of the Spring Creek Irrigation Co. for a number of years and retained that position to the last. On June 7, 1936, he met with an accident at his home and passed away the next day at the age of 76.

HEBER GILES AND MATILDA NICOL CROOK

Heber Giles Crook was born Sept. 18, 1861 at Heber, a son of John and Mary Giles Crook. He married Matilda Nicol, daughter of Thomas Nicol IV and Joanna Christina Handberg on Dec. 14, 1887. Matilda was born April 18, 1868 in Heber. Their children included LeOra and Edna who died in infancy; Hannah Cecilia (Mrs. Warren Jones); John Thomas, married Annie Harvey; Mary (Mrs. Louis Mahoney); Chase Nicol, married Lila Allison; Jeune (Mrs. Wallace Nelson); Dora (Mrs. Walter Fisher) Reed Giles and Blanch. Heber died April 23, 1941 and Matilda died Feb. 12, 1956.

Heber or "Hebe" as he was known, grew up in the West Ward of Heber, learning as a small boy to herd cattle and take care of crops. He also worked as a boy in the Lake Creek sandstone quarry. He helped his parents clear the land of sagebrush and turn it into serviceable farm acreage.

The first year after his marriage, Hebe worked at Park City in James Rasband's butcher shop. He decided he did not care for this work and would rather farm, so he traded his home in Heber and $5,000 for William Murdock's 160 acre farm in Lake Creek, where he moved with his family.

He came to be known as one of the pioneers in agriculture in Wasatch County. He had grown up with the earth and loved it. He had one of the best kept farms in the valley, and raised fruits and berries of all varieties, and was one of the first men to operate a big orchard. He became very proficient in grafting buds of improved species and varieties of trees into the old trees that had become acclimated to the valley. He also raised grains, hay and many other crops, in addition to his cattle interests. He was also in the sheep business with J. W. Giles.

A very close friendship developed between Heber Crook and Elisha Duke that lasted more than 65 years. The two families and others would go camping in the mountains for two weeks every year, an event which their youngsters keenly looked forward to.

A humanitarian, Heber Crook was always willing to help less fortunate persons, and even in the dead of winter would travel long distances to help those who might be stranded, ill or otherwise needed assistance.

He served in many civic capacities, including a school trustee and director of a water company. He was a member of livestock organizations and served for many years as a volunteer weather observer. He took part in activities of the Center Ward where he was Sunday School superintendent.

He turned his farm over to his boys in 1915 and moved to the Heber First Ward with his wife. Together they spent many hours in temple work, Church activities, and yard and gardening work. They later moved into the Matt Clements home in the Second Ward, where they planted trees, flowers, a vegetable garden and had plenty of room for their grandchildren to play.

Matilda, "Tillie," or "Aunt Til" as she was called, learned responsibility early in her life. At the age of nine she would stay with her sister Josephine, whose husband Alva Murdock, worked away from home. One night as she was returning home from her sister's place, she bumped into an old hay rack, bruising her leg badly below the knee. This accident caused her much pain and suffering, and in her later life she had to undergo a series of operations. But through her faith and the power of the priesthood, she was able to retain the use of her leg throughout her life.

As a girl Tillie learned to work around the house. Her mother was a practical nurse and was away from home a lot, so Tillie did much of the work. In the year 1886 she went to White Rocks to live with her sister Josephine, while her brother-in-law managed the Indian Reservation. She returned home in the spring of 1887 to prepare for marriage to Heber, and they were married in the Logan Temple.

After moving to Lake Creek, Matilda took an active part in Church work, teaching classes and conducting the singing. She was a very graceful dancer and taught many young people the various steps. She was also active in Relief Society and the Daughters of the Utah Pioneers.

After her husband's death in 1942 she continued to maintain her home in Heber, though she traveled occasionally to visit her family before her death in 1956.

JOHN WILLIAM GILES

John William Giles, son of William Giles and Christina Carlile, was born March 17, 1869, in Heber City, Utah. From a very humble start as a pioneer boy, he raised to prominence and became a community leader.

On November 23, 1892, in the Logan Temple, he married Rachel Ann Taylor. He was the father of six children: Mrs. John E. Danielson (Ella), Mrs. Earl Smith (May), Taylor, Mont., who married Lorraine Murdock; Mrs. W. C. Wilcox (Sophrona), Mrs. Floyd Kinsey (Viola), and two foster children, Mrs. Leon Ritchie (Elda Robbins) and John Curtis Robbins, who married Glenna Lawrence, were reared in his home. Taylor passed away during the influenza epidemic, while serving as an LDS missionary in the Northern States.

His Church and civic activities were many and successful. He was a city councilman many years and helped organize and was a member of the first board of directors of the Wasatch Chamber of Commerce. He served as president of the North Field Irrigation Co. and also as president of the Provo River Water Users' Protective Assn. He was a member of the fire board and served long as a member of the light and power board, during which time he experienced the installation of the "white way" lighting system along Heber City's Main Street. Distinction came to him when he was asked to serve on the Wasatch County fair board and help organize the Wasatch County Fair. He was chairman of the barbecue committee for many years, during which time thousands of people enjoyed delicious barbecued sandwiches prepared by him at "fair time."

He was ward collector and enjoyed planning and helping at the time Heber Second Ward chapel was erected.

He had special enthusiasm and ability in road building, most roads in Wasatch County bearing his marks of improvement.

Without compensation, save the satisfaction and joy of seeing children and friends have paths by which to go to school and to work, early winter mornings found him plowing paths through the deep snow with his home-made plow and trusty team. This service was done over all the city streets.

He had many friends among the Indians. Oftentimes his back yard was a welcome campsite for Uncle Jesse Copperfield and others during their shopping days in Heber. They were always welcome guests at his table for meals. He was the recipient of many Indian gifts and relics because of his acts of friendship and kindness.

He was a pioneer livestock man, riding the range in both winter and summer. An interesting side occupation he enjoyed very much was that of freighting for the Heber Mercantile Co.

He was a true friend, no person ever being turned away hungry from his home or camp.

He died from a sudden heart attack on July 8, 1942.

RACHEL ANN TAYLOR GILES

The 24th day of September, 1872, heralded the arrival of little Rachel Ann Taylor, the third child born to Mary Horrocks and Joseph Walker Taylor. Ann, born April 11, 1868, died suddenly when a little past a year old. Alice was 2½ when Rachel Ann was born and was delighted to have a new little sister.

Father Joseph worked hard to support his little family. He had many plans to provide the best for his two small daughters, but in the late summer, just two years after Rachel's birth, he took pneumonia while herding his cattle in the foothills of Santaquin, Utah, and the illness took his life September 21, 1875.

Grief-stricken, Mother Mary packed her belongings and left Rachel's birth place, Santaquin, to live in Heber, Wasatch County, Utah, where she could be near her parents.

Rachel Ann was unable to attend school until she was eight years old. The loss of her father left the family in serious financial straits and there was little money to spare for education. However, she gratefully attended the old Sleepy Hollow School between the ages of eight and 11.

She herded cows along the ditch banks during her summer vacations, and while she kept her lonely watch she sewed clothes for her little doll from scraps found among her mother's "rug rags." This humble beginning saw her develop into one of the finest seamstresses in Heber Valley.

Mother Mary was industrious, making rugs and carpets to earn a living for her and her three daughters. (After moving to Heber she married William Cook and by him had another daughter, Mary Elizabeth. Mary and William didn't live together long and this left Mary to care for her small children alone as before.) But for all her efforts, she could not meet the ever-growing needs of her family, and Rachel Ann was forced to leave school at the age of 11 to help out. She was employed by President Abram Hatch to clean house and help care for his seven children. She also worked for Tom Hicken, Dave Hicken, and Sarah Buys.

She had little time for recreation, but managed to find time to sing in the ward choir, under the direction of Sam Wing. She had a sweet soprano voice and was a member of the choir 17 years.

Another choir member was John William Giles, a handsome bass singer. Sometimes after choir rehearsals they would join a square dancing group in the "Old Hall" and for a time Rachel could forget the responsibilities which were heaped upon her young shoulders.

Their friendship grew to love and eventually "Will" proposed. On a cold November day, when she was but 19, they set off in a horse-drawn carriage on a 24-hour journey to Logan, Utah, where they were married in the Logan LDS Temple on November 23, 1892.

The couple made their home in a neat one-room structure on First West and Second South Streets, which was frequently enlarged to meet the needs of their growing family. Two daughters, Ella LaPreal and Annie May; two sons, Taylor and William Montell, and finally two more daughters, Mary Sophrona and Viola, were born of this marriage. They also reared two small children of a nephew, Hyrum W. Robbins, whose wife died from influenza. They were John Curtis and Elda, and they have been to Rachel, William and their family a son and a daughter, a brother and a sister.

Rachel Ann was called to be a Relief Society visiting teacher in August of 1905, when her third daughter, Sophrona, was only eight days old. She served in this position two years, when she was released to become second counselor to Heber Second Ward Relief Society. Because of her faithful service she was soon made first counselor, and in September, 1919, she was set apart as Relief Society president of Heber Second Ward, Wasatch Stake.

During her service in the Relief Society she was frequently called to leave her family (often in the middle of the night) to care for the sick, the dying, and to prepare the dead for burial. She was particularly hard-pressed during the influenza epidemic in 1918.

It was this same epidemic which took the life of her eldest son, Taylor, as he completed his twentieth month as a missionary in the Northern States Mission. His sudden death while in the service of the Lord was a great test of faith for the entire family. But because they had a testimony of the gospel they passed the test with the realization that they were parted from their son and brother for only a short time.

Rachel Ann became well known throughout Wasatch County as a fine and dependable seamstress. Because she was constantly striving for perfection she acquired the exacting arts of cutting, fitting and expert finishing. Her greatest delight is her beautiful cut-work embroidery and her elegant quilting. She has won many blue ribbons at the Wasatch County Fair and at the Utah State Fair. At the age of 81 she was awarded the grand championship ribbon at the Wasatch County Fair for her individual display.

She was widowed in 1942, when a sudden heart attack claimed William, her partner of almost 50 years. Because of her understanding of the teachings of the gospel and her diligence in rearing a good and loyal family she has never been alone. She can honestly say, "I have lived a good life," for she has been faithful to her membership in The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and faithful to her duties as a wife and mother. Her posterity, eight children (including her two "foster" children), 20 grandchildren, and 33 great-grandchildren, look upon her with great love and respect.

beha Markwood Howe on February 14, 1894, in the Salt Lake Temple. She was born July, 1871, at Tombrook, Virginia, a daughter of Thomas Henry and Mary Jane Lichliter Howe. They were the parents of four sons and two daughters: Annie H., married to J. Thomas Crook; Hugh Jr., married Seba Ates; Myrth Harvey; James M., married to Edna Bennion; John F., married Lucille Henderson and Rex W., married Margaret Baxtrum. Hugh William died in October of 1932 and Arbeha died on April 26, 1940.

Hugh served as bishop of the Center Ward from 1903 until 1917 when Bishop Bennett Lindsay was sustained. His counselors were Warren Smith and A. M. Hansen. They moved away and Bennett Lindsay and Elmer Mahoney were chosen to replace them. He was loved by all who knew him. He was a friend to all and his home was always open especially for the young people who gathered at his home to enjoy social times with his family and to enjoy the music, drama and "Aunt Beha's" delicious food of which there was plenty.

Hugh Harvey never let any one go in need if he knew of their wants. He was the ideal of many young men. He was a member of the High Council, a County Commissioner and a school trustee of Wasatch County.

He was very talented in both dramatics and music and was known for his outstanding entertaining.

He was prominent as a leader among the sheepmen of the state. He served eight years as president of the Utah State Woolgrowers Association, during which time the organization grew in strength and efficiency in promoting the rights of the wool and sheep industry. The Utah Wool Marketing Association was organized in 1926 with Hugh W. Harvey as the first president. He was president of the Uintah Forest Grazers Assn., and a member of the Utah State Republican Central Committee.

Arbelia's father died when she was twelve years old. Because her mother was very poor and had a large family to support, she and her brother, Virgil, came to Heber with an Uncle, where she spent the rest of her life.

She graduated from the Brigham Young University as a teacher. Her first assignment was in Daniel, Utah. The first morning she went to school with the superintendent, who introduced her to the students. She was very small in stature and very pretty. Many of her young men students were much larger than she, and as the superintendent left he gave her a large stick of oak in case she needed to discipline the students.

After her marriage her family and home were her first concern. Her personality was one of outstanding friendliness. She was always smiling and happy, making everyone who met her feel the same way.

She was a wonderful homemaker and gracious hostess, and was an excellent seamstress and dress maker.

Her hobby was gardening, and she spent much of her time cultivating and caring for her flowers and also a large vegetable garden.

Mrs. Harvey was also a faithful member of the LDS Church. She served as President of the Relief Society in the Center Ward. She was also President in the Heber First Ward with Jennie Broadbent and Crissie L. Duke counselors. She was active in all organizations of the Church. HON. ABRAM C. HATCH of Heber City, who passed away March 24th, 1932, was a veteran business and professional man in the public life of Wasatch County and the state. His name had been in Utah all his life, for over three-quarters of a century, and he was one of the most active of the old-timers in the Fair of his district.

Mr. Hatch was born at Lehi, Utah County, September 14, 1856, son of Abram and Parmelia J. (Lott) Hatch. His father was one of the earliest pioneers of Lehi, and in the course of a long and active life was a merchant, farmer, rancher, and for many years bishop of the Church of the Latter Day Saints. He was the first president of the Wasatch Stake. He died December 3, 1911.

Abram C. Hatch as a boy attended public school at Lehi and Heber. In 1895 he received the Republican nomination for district judge, getting the nomination in convention by a vote of forty-five to eighteen. He was defeated by just 103 votes. However, the successful candidate resigned in June after his election and Judge Hatch was appointed to fill the unexpired term by the governor. In 1900 he was elected on the Republican ticket district attorney for Wasatch, Utah and Uinta counties, serving one term, and refused reelection. Judge Hatch organized the town of Heber, and served as its attorney for three years. He gave freely of his time and professional services in many ways for the benefit of his locality and district. He helped establish the Heber Light & Power Company. He had an official part in the Republican party organization and in 1929 was prominent in the Ogden Republican Convention. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce of Heber, the Utah State and American Bar Associations.

Judge Hatch married December 17, 1879, Miss Maria Luke of Heber, daughter of Henry and Harriett Luke, who were early settlers in Sanpete County. Mrs. Hatch passed away March 19, 1919. On April 12, 1920, Judge Hatch married Elizabeth Nelson of Heber.
